Opening Kickapoo Reservation.

Perry, O. T., May 19.—The news that the Kickapoo Indian country would be opened Thursday, the 23d, at noon, has caused great excitement in Oklahoma. The Kickapoo Reservation is the finest land in Oklahoma, and consists of 206,000 acres, but in Indian allotments and school reservations take up all but less than 600 quarter sections. For two years hundreds of people have been camping around the country waiting for it to be opened, and thousands are going in to-day. It is estimated that no less than 20,000 people will contest for the 600 claims.

Must Be Paid.

We have placed our accounts in the hands of S. W. Gaskill for collection. Our firm has dissolved partnership and our business must be closed up at once. We hope every one indebted to the firm will make it unnecessary for a suit to be brought, by calling on Mr. Gaskill before June 1 and settling his account.

GREENE, CLAY & CHENAUET

On Thursday at Owensboro, the convention of the First National Commissioners District nominated J. F. Denney for National Commissioner and passed a resolution declaring for the free and unlimited coinage of silver at the ratio of 16 to 1.

The City Council will meet to-night for the purpose of receiving depositions from J. M. Bigstaff and wife foretellers through the Bigstaff addition and opening and letting bids for the grading and macadamizing of Sycamore street to Winn street. In addition to Sycamore to Winn street Mr. Bigstaff proposes cross streets and also the extension of Elm street to Winn, not to be opened at once, but when even it becomes necessary in the judgment of the Council. This proposition on the part of the Council should be accepted. Heretofore the city has been laid off in reference to one street without considering cross streets, and because of this the regular squares, which belong to all well laid out cities, we are minus. In all additions to the city from now on cross streets must be provided for, if we are to have a properly laid off city. These cross and parallel streets will be more for the benefit of the city than any individual, and we trust the Council will act wisely, both in regard to this and the proposed addition on the extension of South Sycamore street taking in the lands of Mrs. Mogular, Mrs. Apperson and T. D. Jones.

Frank Morrison, who has been running a "blind tiger" in or near Seelyville, and had for a long time baffled the authorities, was arrested and fined $100 the other day. Morrison has a record as a skilled violator of local option laws.

Mrs. Lavinia Montgomery and her sister, Miss Helen Ossington, have rented the J. O. Miller property on Harrison avenue and will take possession at once. Miss Chenault will open a Girl's School this fall in the property. Miss Chenault has for months past been engaged in teaching in our city school and is not unknown to our people among whom she has made many friends since she came to our city. She is an experienced and successful teacher and without doubt will meet the success her true worth as an educator merits.

The Turner-Hazelrigg Wedding.

The approaching wedding of Mr. Chas. C. Turner, the handsome tipstaff of the Court of Appeals, and Miss Jessie Hazelrigg, of Mt. Sterling, is announced to take place in that city Tuesday, June 4. Mr. Turner is one of the best known young men in the State, and numbers his friends by his acquaintances. Miss Hazelrigg is the first cousin of Appellate Judge Hazelrigg, and herself combines many graces of person and character.—Courier-Journal.

Looks Like Gold.

Enterprise, Ky., May 18.—Considerable excitement prevails at Soldier, two miles west of here, over the find of A. M. Shay, a fire-day miner. He has struck a substance that everybody who has examined it pronounces payable. If it proves to be, it is in paying quantities and will prove abundant for the heretofore poor country.

Silver Platform.

A Stirring Fight For Senatorship

Has Begun

And There Will Be Fun From

Now On.

On last Saturday week Senator J. C. S. Blackburn raised his free silver standard in Lawrenceburg in Congressmen McCreary's own district and won a strong following and on last Saturday Mr. McCreary replied to the Senator. This was the first bi-partisan meeting since the silver men gained their victory at Owensboro, and hundreds of people gathered to hear the subject discussed in all its bearings by the able and popular representative of the two metals. Senator Blackburn will be at the same place next Saturday to reply to Mr. McCreary and his friends will have him present to answer the silver Senator. McCreary vigorously attacked the free silver platform and challenged a reply. Mr. McCreary retorted but I have given you my honest convictions. I have done what I know is my duty. Do not leave the old party; do not declare for free silver, it means ruin. The eyes of the Nation are upon you at this time; you will not go wrong long; you will come out of the dark woods once more back into the old Democratic party."

The ex-Governor does not think that a free silver resolution will be passed either at Winchester or at the State Convention at Louisville.

The last week reports from the county are to the effect that all crops in the lowlands are greatly damaged, and the same reports regarding fruits, except where the fruit was well formed. Apples which are early do not seem to be damaged at all.

to Senator Blackburn in his silver views said that he reminded him of a beautiful swan floating gracefully over the water wrapt in contemplation of the silver sunlight on its surface, but utterly unmindful of the debts beneath.

At which juncture a cry came from the audience, "Blackburn is a Populist not a Democrat."

A warm debate is expected between Blackburn and McCreary. McCreary said: "I am a Democrat; I have never deserted the party, and I never will. I stand on the platform of the National Democratic party adopted at its last convention at Chicago. I approve of the last action of the House of Representatives on the money question, and I am in favor of the money plank in the platform adopted by the last Democratic convention of this State."

In his further remarks he said: "I shall never again come before you as a candidate for Congress, and what I have said on the silver question may not meet your views; in fact, it may retire me from political life altogether.

Court Day.

There was a comparatively small crowd in town yesterday. Business was generally dull among our merchants. Some 800 cattle on the market that were pretty well sold at prices from 22 to 24 cents. Few horses other than plugs. Mules were slow and not many offered.

William Siedel, Sheriff, sold Monday 50 acres of land on Hog Creek, the property of Joseph Garrett, to satisfy judgment to J. C. Richardson for $37.

Also redemption right of A. D. Thomas in his mother's estate nine acres to Howe & Johnson for $60.

Some thief entered O'Rear & Bigstaff's law office while they were at the circus on last Friday evening and tried to pry open the money box in the safe, but only succeeded in damaging it. T. J. Bigstaff's private desk was also broken open, but nothing was secured. It is supposed it was a amateur thief as his work was very blunderingly done. A hotelier was the tool used.

RELIGIOUS.

Quarterly meeting at the M. E. church, South, Saturday and Sunday, 25th and 26th inst. Presiding Elder Hawk will preach both days at night hours.

The congregation of the First Presbyterian Church is improving its church building by changing the cornice, painting and painting the brick work and papering and painting the inside. This is the oldest church building in the city, having been built in 1833. During the war it was used by the soldiers for their barracks, by the Court for a temple of justice, and also for school purposes. It has the best acoustic properties of any building in the city, and we are glad to see it preserved.

Revival Services.

Elder John S. Swinney, of Paris, will begin a series of meetings with the Christian church of this city on Sunday morning next. Mr. Swinney, who is one of the foremost men in his denomination in the State, needs no introduction to our people with whom he is very popular. He is a forcible speaker, a pulpit orator of the first rank, and a man of blame who never sends an audience away without giving them much food for thought. There is probably no man in the State who is able to more pleasantly and plainly set forth the distinctive features of the belief of his church, and he never fails to fill his audience room with seekers after truth. The congregation extend to all a most cordial invitation to come and hear this distinguished divine. Preparations are being made for a good meeting and large results are looked for in the revival services. Elder H. D. Clark, the pastor of the church here, will go to Paris Sunday to supply Mr. Swinney's pulpit.

Making a Home.

Let no man count his life a failure who has created and maintained (or striven to do) a happy home. And his life is a failure, however brilliant may be his career, or however glided may be his pathway, who having the opportunity to make a home, has neglected or misused it.

God give the man or woman into whose life the memory or experience of a happy home life has not entered. The possession of a home makes a conservative citizen. It is the home-land that form the army of tramps and idlers so menacing to our institutions. But legislation has thrown a shadow over our nation, and a tone of sarcasm is mentioned "the land of the free and the home of the brave." Let us be thankful that a gleam of light pierces the clouds through the possibilities offered by the irrigation of arid America and the consequent millions of new homes made possible. As in the famous recipe for cooking the hare, the first as well as the most important is "catch your hare," so in the adornment of home the first and most important home is catch your home. But catch it! don't give up your home. Have a home. However humble, it will be home, and the universe around which will gather all the bright angles of life; the dynamo wherein is stored the energy and electricity which flashes out in deeds of heroism and patriotism, which binds heart to heart and demonstrates the divinity and brotherhood of all mankind. When the home is secured, next in it, love it, teach yourself to properly prize it. Let all the growing tendrils of your nature entwine about it! Spend your energies making it the bright particular spot on earth for those associated with you in it. The very chief adornment must be yourself; therefore see to it that you do adorn it, and do not disfigure it. No fear but the wife and children will adorn it if you set the example. You will love your wife and children none the less for loving your home and your trees and flowers and nature; rather your love for them is best expressed in making their beauty and a pride—Ora Oak, in paper read before Farmers' Institute, at Peris, Cal.

FEEDING A LINER'S FIRE.

Down in the Stock-Hole of an Ocean Steamer.

600 TONS OF COAL A DAY.

Boilers Require 480 Tons of Water an Hour.

200 MEN BELOW THE DECKS.

There is no one branch of industry in the mercantile marine about which so little is generally known and the work in which, in proportion to its great importance, is so little understood or appreciated as the engineer's department on a great ocean liner, says the Brooklyn Eagle. Prominence has been given to the affairs of other branches of steamship service, and it may, therefore, be of interest to give a brief sketch of the duties and living of the men whose duty it is to keep up steam and produce speed on the vessels. The engineer's department on each of the great Cunard steamers, Lusitania and Campania, consists of 161 men, as follows: 1 chief engineer, 21 engineers, 20 refrigerating engineers, 1 boiler maker, 2 electricians, 2 storekeepers, 2 "donkey men," 20 grocers, 60 trimmers and 80 firemen. The Majestic and Teutonic each require the services of from 160 to 170 men in their engine rooms. Of this number 20 are engineers and 60 are firemen. Each vessel is made up of at least 6 engineers, six grocers, 20 firemen, 14 trimmers, and an electrician and two grocers under him.

The duties of a chief engineer are multifarious and oppressive, and though he does not keep watch, his trained ear is kept listening to the beat of the engines, and at anytime of the day or night he receives reports from his subordinate officers and issues orders accordingly. The second engineer keeps watch eight hours out of the twenty-four, and has as his companion the seventh engineer. The third and fifth engineer keep another watch, and the fourth and sixth the other third watch. Under this arrangement there is not a single moment when every section of the engine-room department is not under the supervision of the engineers, and there is not a moment of the day or night when a controlling hand is not ready in case of any irregularity in the complicated mechanism of the giant engines that propel these great liners. At the big row of steam-gauges and other indicators, where the telegraph dial connects with the bridge, an engineer is always standing ready to answer the least signal. Each set of officers, as a rule, make every endeavor to keep up a high standard of steam and vie with the other watches to obtain a record in the number of revolutions of the screw. By such records their capabilities are judged.

None but marine engineers know how absolutely important it is to have competent men in the stock-hole of their vessel. Steam must be kept up, and with a crew of men that do not thoroughly understand their business the engineer's difficulties are almost unmountable. The work done in the stock-hole is of a very exhausting character, so much so that four hours at a stretch is the limit of the time required for their labor. Sometimes the heat reaches 140 degrees, and any one not used to it would soon be prostrated. The stokers must, therefore, be men of great bodily strength and have the necessary skill required in their particular line of work. In the working of seventy-five fires, the number is divided, making three groups of twenty-five each. The lot going on at 12 o'clock noon, work until four o'clock, when the second gang goes on and works until 8 o'clock, and then the third gang goes on and works until midnight, when, after eight hours' rest, the first lot goes on again, and so the rotation is repeated during the entire voyage.

Thus there are always two sets of men in the forecastle and one set of men at work, though in an emergency they are liable to be called out at any time. About twelve men of each watch on duty are deputed to attend to the fires, the remaining number doing the trimming business, which consists of bringing coal from the bunkers ready for the stokers' shovels and sending up the ashes to the deck. The trimmer's task is even worse than that of the others, as they have to make their way into stifling bunkers situated around and often on top of the boilers, and from there fetch baskets of coal to the stoke holes. On an average the furnace doors have to be opened about every ten minutes to fire up, and between whistles the firemen are pretty constantly employed in stoking, raking or drawing the fires. The stokers which these men use are long iron rods, weighing about forty pounds. After having buried the poker about eight feet deep in the coals, the men throw their full weight upon the end as levers, and lift the whole bank of fire about a foot. When the poker is drawn a large black hole is left through the fire, into which the draft is sucked with increasing roar. Three thrusts are made each time, one to the right, one to the left, and one down the center. The furnaces are cleaned at the end of each four hours, so that each new set of men commence work with clean fires.

There are on each of the two great Cunarders twelve large boilers and two others for auxiliary purposes, and 102 furnaces. The twelve ball boilers are double ended, 18 feet in diameter and 18 feet long. These are fitted longitudinally, three in a row, separated from each other by a large coal bunker, occupying the full width of the ship and 65 feet of its length. For each set of boilers there is a funnel which has a double casing, the inside diameter exceeds 19 feet, while the top is 140 feet from the bottom of the ship. To give some idea of their enormous size it may be stated that were they tunnels instead of funnels two railway trains could easily pass through abreast, with room to spare.

When the steamer arrives at her destination neither the engineer's nor the fireman's work ceases. Engines have to be overhauled and cleaned, and sometimes the most delicate repairs to intricate and complicated machinery are executed, and this work, together with a multitude of other duties to be performed, keep the men in almost constant employment. It is easier to talk about the power executed by engines of 15,000 or 20,000 horse power than to realize what it means. Assuming that the engines will require eighteen pounds of steam per horse-power per hour, then 160 tons of water must be pumped into the boilers every hour, and 160 tons of steam will pass through the engines in the same time. In twenty-four hours the water will amount to 3,840 tons, which would fill a canal 93 feet long, 40 feet wide and seven feet deep. Taking the condensing water at thirty times the feed water it will amount to 5,500 tons per hour, or 115,200 tons in twenty-four hours, or for a six-day run not less than 691,200 tons or 24,883,000 cubic feet.

Few people realize the enormous increase required in the amount of coal burned to get a comparatively slight increase in the speed of the vessel. The Paris and New York burn about 330 tons of coal per day, or about 30,000 pounds per hour, which is equivalent to a coal consumption of 1,711 pounds per hour per horse power. The average for all the fast ships with triple expansion engines, like the Paris, New York, Majestic, Teutonic and Forest Bismarck is said to be about 1.75 per horse-power per hour. On the great Cunarders, Campania and Lusitania, the consumption is much greater than the above. It is stated that when these two twin screw steamers are driven to their utmost capacity they consume 600 tons of coal a day. If this amount is used then nearly 4,000 tons of coal must be put aboard these ships at each end of the route. When a steamer has broken the record an hour or two, it must be remembered that the result was probably accomplished at the cost of many extra hundreds of tons of coal. It can easily be seen, therefore, that the coal bill is one of the very large items in the list of expenses of an "ocean greyhound." The coal for the Cunard Company in 1893 cost nearly $2,000,000, and that for the Campagnie Generale Transatlantique, $1,884,066. In 1892 the steamers of the North German Lloyd Company consumed 760,000 tons of coal, costing over $3,000,000.

The wages of marine engineers and firemen vary according to the trade in which the steamer is engaged, and the size of the vessel. On the North Atlantic route the wages are generally higher than on other routes. For vessels of over 2,000 tons the average monthly wages of first engineers is $87.45; second engineers, $60.75; third engineers, $51.00; fourth, fifth and sixth engineers, $43.74. Leading firemen get $24.30, and ordinary firemen, $20.65. Greasers receive from $30.16 to $24.30, according to grade, and trimmers from $21.87 to $24.30.

Agricultural Notes.

When shipping poultry distances supply the coops with corn and water. Do not mix a lot of meal and compel the eating of sour stuff.

The average American eats twice the amount of mutton he did twenty years ago because he gets better. The fleece weighs double, too, because of better breeding and handling. The best pays in all things pertaining to stock.

It is a mistake not to manure all orchards. Very often it is the reason why they fail to give satisfaction when they reach full growth. If the trees appear healthy and yet make no growth, very likely they are hungry for manure.

Disinfect the hired man who does not or cannot manage the horses without blows. It is good business policy to discharge him if he makes harsh commands or swears at them. Kind and quiet drivers are always to be preferred—leaving horses renders them vicious; do not permit it.

Experiments made in keeping fruit in cold storage, with a constant influx of air at a temperature of about 42 degrees above zero, showed that apples kept well four months and kept ten days after removal. Pears, plums, peaches, grapes, tomatoes and mangoes, kept for two months, all coming out in good condition.

Mulching of strawberries to retard them is done by placing manure over the ground when it is frozen, and then scattering straw over it. Care must be taken that the manure does not cover the crowns of the plants. Leave the covering of straw on quite late in spring. The manure can remain permanently.

Those who keep young stock alive through the winter on rough fodder for the sake of the growth they will make next summer should be able to see that the summer's growth could be added just as well and much cheaper if the animals had been kept growing all winter. You cannot starve a young animal and make it up afterward.

When the hens cease to lay, try an experiment with them, as it is then the time to learn. Withhold one of foods and give meat in place, and in a day or two try egg cake. It may be the case that they lack some substance which is all that is required to induce them to begin laying again. As all flocks differ, there is no better way of learning than to make experiments with the flock in order to avoid mistakes.

Getting Acclimated.

Jim is a teamster for a manufacturing establishment in Detroit, and until a week or ten days ago Jim was a bachelor and happy. Then in a moment of recklessness he got married, the lady in the case being about ten years older than he and a temper on her that was simply terrific. Jim took her to a little house he had rented and settled down to domestic bliss, but somehow it wasn't success. The other evening the policeman who is on that beat and has known Jim a long time noticed him come out and sit down on the front steps awhile, then go in and shortly reappear for a few moments, then go in again. He watched this peculiar action for an hour, and the next time Jim appeared he went over to him.

"What's the matter?" he asked. Jim jerked his thumb over his shoulder and smiled a wan sort of a smile.

"The policeman didn't understand. 'Got married, you know,' said Jim. 'Yes,' replied the officer. 'Only four days ago,' said Jim. The officer nodded. 'Well,' said Jim, 'my wife's got a mighty sly temper and I'm trying to get used to her on the installment plan.'—Detroit Free Press.

Dancing Privileges at Auction.

A custom that has existed for several centuries is still maintained in some towns on the Lower Rhine. On Easter Monday—sunday day—the town crier or clerk calls all the young people together, and to the highest bidder sells the privilege of dancing with the chosen girl, and her only, during the entire year that follows. The fees flow into the public poor-box.—Chicago Tribune.

Col. W. O. Bradley Turns Pro-phet.

Col. Bradley was asked by a representative of the Standard Interior Journal what his party was going to do on the money question. "I can tell you better," replied the Colonel, "what your party will not do. It will not touch the question of free silver at all, but will ignore it altogether." Concerning the currency plank in the platform of the two parties as adopted at their last National convention, Mr. Bradley said: "There never was a more complete straddle on anything. Both parties straddled it. The only difference between the National Democratic and Republican utterances on the question is that reading between the lines the Democratic platform rather declares for free silver, while ours does not mean anything in particular. There will be no uncertain sound about our State platform, however."

When to Prune.

That we should prune with a knife rather than a saw, is an old and wise doctrine. It involves the cutting away of superfluous wood while that is yet small and soft. As a general rule, says the American Agriculturist, it is wise to prune about the time the buds are breaking and the growth is most active. This is especially the case where, because of previous neglect, or from accidents, it becomes necessary to remove larger limbs than can be cut with a knife. The wounds thus made will, if the pruning be done at the beginning of the season, most rapidly heal over.

While using Bordeaux mixture on your trees don't overlook the needs of currants and gooseberries. These fruits in recent years have been attacked by leaf hoppers and mites, as well as by worms. Apply fertilizers, such as ashes, potash salts and perhaps bone, in liberal quantities, and keep the soil around the bushes loose and free from weed growth. Tobacco dust (which we now find advertised at $2.30 a barrel) dusted over the bushes when wet with dew will soon rid them of the worm.

Following is the reply of Mrs. Frances Cleveland in answer to the inquiry: "What is the happiest time in woman's life?"

"Replies to your query must depend largely upon each individual woman. She who is a great artist and whose whole being is absorbed by her art will find her happiest time in the practice of her art. She who aspires to reign as a society queen will find her happiest time when she is generally recognized as having made some social success. She to whose character religious enthusiasm is the keynote will find her happiest moments in devoting herself to church work, while the woman given up to domesticity will find here in the duties and pleasures of home. Thus the happiest time in each woman's life must depend upon her personal traits and characteristics, Seven New York Romans were arrested in one week for borrowing money from their lady loves and then refusing to marry them.

Jewish guides in Rome never pass under the arch of Titus, but walk around it. The reason is because it commemorated a victory over their race.

The Sheriff of Worth county, Ga., arrested a school teacher recently and found a pistol in his pocket. The teacher claims that the weapon was used to keep his school in order.

People who live beyond their means are very tardy in paying their debts, have been blacklisted in Vienna by a daring publisher. A book containing their names has met with a big sale.

There are doors in some old houses never used except for funerals and marriages. After the bride and groom had passed, the door was nailed up to await the next occasion.

A provincial English paper tells its readers that a Delaware chieftain named Gas Adicks invaded the Province of Delaware, a few months ago, and has been holding the people in subjection ever since.

Henry Arthur Jones' latest play holds the record for length of time. It is "The Triumph of the Philistines, and How Mr. Jordan Preserved the Morals of Market Powbury Under Very Trying Circumstances."

A league has been formed in France to assert the rights of pedestrians against bicyclists. The members agree never to get out of the way of a bicyclist; they think that in case of a collision the cyclist is sure to get the worst of it.

There is a clause in the New Zealand Local Option Bill providing that every man convicted of being a habitual drunkard shall be photographed at his own expense, and every publican in the district in which he lives supplied with a copy.

The big statue of William Penn which surmounts the tower of the Philadelphia City Hall, faces the old Penn Treaty Park. This displeases the citizens who get only a rear or profile view of the statue. So, to please every body, J. Chester Wilson has proposed to put the statue on a revolving pedestal, which will be turned around once every twenty-four hours by means of clockwork.

In Altona a private soldier, on being relieved from his duty as a sentry, went up to the armory and took a rifle in command and returned himself as having committed suicide. Sure enough, on inspection he was found to have a bullet hole beginning at the left nipple and ending under his shoulder blade. Thirty minutes later he was dead.

Eugene de Robespierre, a liberal descendant of the Robespierres of the French Revolution, who is a coal merchant in the Rue de la Federation, Paris, was summoned to the court the other day to answer a charge of having supplied a customer with a short weight ton of coal. M. Robespierre was able to show that he had been unjustly accused.

An internist thirty years after death took place in 1857 in Berlin. The deceased was a celebrated beamish, and was a celebrated beamish. He had ordered in her will that her coffin should have a glass plate in the top, and that it should be constantly watched for a month, and then placed in a particular visible for thirty years; all of which orders were scrupulously carried out.

A curious trade complication has arisen out of the use of the water-tube boilers in England. The boiler-makers' Union and the Amalgamated Engineers both claim the right to fit the pipes for the boilers in the new cruises or ferries, and for the present each association is allowed to work for a week at a time, but when the question is definitely settled the side that loses will probably smile.

The effect of the introduction of new machinery forms a chapter in the report of the Labor Commissioners of New York. According to their estimate the number of men employed as carpenters in New York has been decreased 15 per cent. by new machinery, the number of buttonhole makers, 50 per cent., of shirtmakers 38 per cent., of bakers and confectioners 20 per cent., of furniture workers 35 per cent., printers 41 per cent., typographers 50 per cent., silk ribbon weavers 40 per cent., wood carvers 62 per cent.

The Buffalo Express says that buildings are now in course of construction in Buffalo that will cost $11,000,000, one of which, the Elliott Square Building, is to contain 600 offices, besides stores, cafe, etc. Buffalo has thirty-six grain elevators, with a storage capacity of over 16,000,000 bushels. She received and distributed last year 7,755,000 tons of iron ore and 2,475,000 tons of anthracite coal. Her bank clearing were nearly $200,000,000. She imported foreign goods direct to the amount of $3,038,000, and made 1,396,000 barrels of flour.

A Mild Man.

"My dear, you remember I have frequently said to you I believed that Brother Meeks, who lives out beyond South Squam, came the nearest to being wholly sanctified of any of my parishioners?" remarked the Reverend Mr. Laaks, of the Hawbuck church, to his wife, soon after returning from a visit to that portion of his charge. "Well, now I give up to say that I entertain a grave suspicion of the genuineness of his sanctification."

"Why so?" questioned Mrs. Laaks. "I spent the afternoon at the home of the Meeks family yesterday," returned the good man, "and during my stay a severe thunderstorm came up and the house was struck by lightning. Sister Meeks had just instructed her husband to rekindle the kitchen fire preparatory to cooking supper, and he was down on his knees before the stove, blowing the coals vigorously, when there came terrific claps of thunder, and a bolt of lightning came down the chimney and knocked him senseless. It also tore off nearly all of his clothing, scorched his whiskers and burnt a streak down his breast with a red hot poker. It was some time before he recovered his senses, and when he did so all he said was to reproachfully remark to his wife, 'Sarah, you oughtn't to treat me like this before the minister. I was hurrying just as fast as I could.' I may be doing Brother Meeks an injustice, but I cannot help thinking that he is more leek-headed than sanctified."

One Hundred Per Cent.

One day not long ago I sat down beside a tramp-looking man on a bench in Union Square and handed him a cigar. He handled it in the most gingerly manner and eyed it curiously, and after a moment asked: "Say, boss, how much did she cost?"

"It's a straight ten," I replied. "Want to make some money?"

"Yes," "Then glumme a nickel for a ten cent cigar," he said as he handed over the smoker.

I had given him the cigar to pave the way to a talk, but he had no sooner received his coin than I was left to talk to the bench.—M. Quad in Detroit Free Press.

A Little Girl's Experience in a Lighthouse.

Mr. and Mrs. Loren Troscott are keepers of the Gov. Lighthouse at Sand Beach, Mich., and are blessed with a daughter four years old. Last April she was taken down with measles, followed with a dreadful Cough and turning into a fever. Doctors at home and at Detroit treated her, but in vain, she grew worse rapidly, until she was a mere "handful of bones"—Then she tried Dr. King's New Discovery and after the use of two and a half bottles, was completely cured. They say Dr. King's New Discovery is worth its weight in gold, yet you may get a trial free at W. B. Lloyd's drugstore.

Boom in Beef Cattle.

We may now expect to see something of a boom in the cattle industry. Beef has apparently reached the turning point. Five years ago expert raisers were predicting that beef would no longer be sold at a low price, as farmers had been selling off their breeding females. The subsequent seasons did not however, show the effect predicted. Now at last the inevitable results are beginning to be manifest, and it will probably be a long time before prices tend in the opposite direction.—Farmer's Review.

ANNOUNCEMENTS.

For Railroad Commissioner.
We are authorized to announce John C. Wood as a candidate for Railroad Commissioner, for the Eastern District of Kentucky, subject to the action of the Republican party.

For Representative.

I am a candidate for the office of Representative of the counties of Montgomery and Meade, subject to the action of the Democratic party.
N. F. TUCKER.

We are authorized to announce Mr. W. F. Horton as a candidate to represent the counties of Montgomery and Meade in the House of the General Assembly of Kentucky, subject to the action of the Democratic party.

We are authorized to announce H. M. Woodford as a candidate for Representative in this Legislative District, composed of Montgomery and Meade counties, subject to the action of the Democratic party.

For Superintendent of Public Instruction.

I am a candidate for the nomination for Superintendent of Public Instruction, subject to the action of the Democratic Convention.
C. W. FOWLER.

Secretary Carlisle left Washington Sunday afternoon to begin his money campaign in Kentucky and Tennessee. At Covington last night he delivered the first of a series of four speeches presenting, as only Secretary Carlisle can present them, the truths of experience, upon which rests, as he thinks, the cause of sound money. These speeches are the result of earnest work on the part of the Secretary. Secretary Carlisle will make on his present tour only the four speeches announced, but may return to Kentucky again to make other speeches before the State Convention meets.

The Democratic District Committee for this Legislative District, will meet at Ebenezer today to decide upon the time and manner of selecting a candidate for Representative. Nearly the entire committee from this county will be present.

Last December in his report to Congress, Secretary Carlisle estimated the deficit for the present fiscal year at $20,000,000. The Treasury statement issued last Tuesday brings the deficit above the $30,000,000 mark.

Suit has been filed at St. Louis against Archbishop Henric by prominent Catholic clergymen and laymen to divert him of control of valuable church property, on the ground that he is unable to perform the duties of his office on account of old age.

WAT HARDIN

Addresses the People of Montgomery

On Free Silver--An Admirable Address.

General P. Wat Hardin, candidate for Governor, addressed the people of the county yesterday in the interest of his candidacy. A full house greeted the distinguished orator, and he received a most respectful hearing from both the advocates of free coinage and those of a single metal standard. General Hardin addressed himself for the large part of his speech to the subject of free coinage of silver, the open advocate of which he most unequivocally declared himself to be. However, his hearers may be divided in their opinion on the silver question. Mr. Hardin certainly did himself no harm in his candidacy. He goes away from here stronger than before his visit. His speech was highly commended by all who heard it, for its temperate tone and fairness of utterance.

The capture of the Owensboro convention by the "Free Silver Men" has been cause for widespread alarm in the ranks of the "Gold Bugs," who see in the possible capture of the State convention by the same parties, cause for the greatest apprehension. On the other hand the free silverites are working for dear life in their efforts to bag the convention, fully assured that the only salvation for the country lies in the passage of their pet resolution. We think the cranks on both sides might as well keep their linen in tact for the present. There are not half so many people in the State who look upon the passage of a "Silver" or "Gold" resolution by the Louisville convention as a matter of vital interest to the Democracy as some interested parties would have us believe. The question is outside the domain of State politics and has been thrust into this campaign, when it had no place there. When the representatives of the two great parties come to discuss the issues of the coming campaign it will be found that the money question will occupy a very insignificant part in their discussions. Our wily opponents are much too smart to allow such a side-tracking of the points they have determined to emphasize during the coming summer and fall months.

we have had a very firm and active market throughout the week. The high prices which have been current for the good to fine grades of burley for some weeks past being fully sustained, while there has been some advance in prices for the medium grades, both of the red and bright character; so that all grades considered, our market this week has been stronger than at any time since the opening of the year. We made frequent sales this week of good burley at prices ranging from $12 to $18, with occasional hds. selling from $18 to $20. In some localities a fair start has been made in putting the crop on the hill, but complaints from destruction by cut worms, continue to

resent our market for burley tobacco.

For the comfort of the lamb, and lambing ewes, says Prof. Craig, an apartment should be provided with small pens for them. This room should be made warm and well lighted, and the partitions removable, so that when not in use during the fall and winter, it should be used as a rampen. This room is a necessity, for it is almost impossible to rear lambs with any degree of success unless they may be put in a quiet place by herself for a day or so previous to lambing and permitted to attend to her lamb undisturbed by others for the course of three or four days.

HE DECEIVED THE PEOPLE.

And is in the Penitentiary for a Year.

[From the Lowell Morning Citizen.]

At Atlantic, Iowa, on May 7, C. M. Allor, alias "Crip" Allor, was convicted of deceiving the people by selling a worthless compound, which he represents to be Hood's Sarsaparilla, and was sentenced by Judge Macy, to one year at hard labor in the Iowa State Penitentiary. Allor's methods were those of a traveling fakir. He has been traveling through Missouri, Nebraska and Iowa, making stands at a day or more in each town, and representing himself as an agent under authority from C. I. Hood & Co., and selling his concoction at one dollar or fifty cents per bottle, giving with each sale various other worthless articles. Citizens of Griswold, Iowa, became suspicious and ascertaining from a druggist that Allor's compound was not Hood's Sarsaparilla, but merely colored water, had him arrested. Three indictments were found against him, the jury convicted him and only after thirty minutes deliberation, and he was sentenced as above. This incident suggests the wisdom of purchasing medicines only of reputable dealers whom you know. Pronounced He pales. Yet Saved

From a letter written by Mrs. Ada E. Hurd of Gorton, S. D., we quote: "Was taken with a bad cold, which settled on my lungs, cough set in and finally terminated in Consumption. Four doctors gave me up saying I could live but a short time. I gave myself up to my Saviour, determined if I could not stay with my friends on earth, I would meet my absent ones above. My husband was advised to get Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption, Coughs and Colds. I gave it a trial, took it in eight bottles; it has cured me and thank God I am now a well and hearty woman."

THE ADVOCATE.

Echoes From the Ram's Horn.

Some people keep their nails in mourning as if their fingers were dead.

Church fairs are devices to make the goats pay for the pasturage of the sheep.

Faith rests and waits. Unbelief refuses to be quiet because it has no feeling.

Every sin in Sodom grew from a seed that can still be found in any carnal heart.

The engagement period often lasts a long time but most couples manage to squeeze through it.

When the spirit leads, it is step by step, but the flesh always wants to do too things on time and jump.

We must educate ballots, or be killed by bullets. Thinking ballots are as effective as thinking bayonets.

We know of a church supported by the hypocrite's graveyard. It is very mean to make the dead pay for the gospel of the living.

Poultry and Bee Notes.

By using an extractor old combs may be saved.

Clover and buckwheat are excellent for producing crops.

There has not yet been an over-production of poultry and eggs.

A bee-keeper's advice is: At the beginning add one of the standard hives and then scrupulously adhere to it. Have all the hives alike.

Here is a 5-cent cholera cure that it is claimed will cure: To one quart of clear water add one tablespoonful of salt, stirring until thoroughly dissolved. Our fowls don't have cholera but some people believe their fowls do. —Midland Poultry Journal.

In poultry raising, in Nebraska Farmers' Days: Several years ago we put an end to cholera with the free use of carbolic acid. Since that time carbolic acid has been the only remedy for cholera or diarrhoea. If we really ever had a case of cholera. I sometimes think vermin the only disease we ever had and perhaps it was carbolic acid on the outside that gave relief. We gave it inwardly, however.

Dairy Notes.

The summer temperature for churning is about sixty three degrees; a little higher in winter.

Butter, says a writer, is often bitter because of impure foods or from holding the cream too long.

The man who neglects provide to a selling crop to tide over a summer drought will kick himself when it is too late.

To amount of salt, says a dairy writer, will preserve poor butter, but too salt will help to preserve good.

Dairymen should turn their attention to the manufacture of milk for their fraudulent methods in making the dairy and milked as usual.

H. B. Gurley thinks that for milkers women are superior to men, because they are naturally more kind and are more sympathetic with the cow men have.

Wallace's Farm and Dairy says: Those who are doing so much worrying for fear there will be an over-production of good butter and cheese, in the dairy business will be over-have much more occasion to over the good butter fat that they are losing at every turn. The man who really has occasion to worry for the future of the dairy business, the one who makes a third-class article of butter and who recovers but half the amount of fat he started with in the milk.

Blasts From the Ram's Horn.

Lightnings are born of Storms, so God's promises are made to reach the ears of men. Death is a clearing up act.

It was not those who lived the nearest to the temple who were the first to glow Christ.

Prayers are not reached, because it is so much easier to pray for than to go for them.

It puzzles an angel to make the man who pines two bits a mislabeled means when he says "thy kingdom come."

Prairies and Forests.

As the rainfall increases from ten to twenty inches, grasses and other plants are multiplied, and become more and more luxuriant; and low, marshy trees, especially cedars and pines, are developed, if they are protected from fire. As the rainfall increases from twenty to forty inches, forests increase; that is they are extended over greater areas, and the trees themselves have a more rapid growth, and attain large size. In such regions vigorous forests will grow if they are protected from fire. The great prairie region of the United States is found mainly where rainfall is from twenty to forty inches, because the forests are destroyed by fire. Going from the more arid to the more humid regions, forests become more frequent and more vigorous; and especially are trees found near streams, and where the ground is hill, broken and stony, so that luxuriant grasses are not abundant to furnish food for fire.

Since the prairies of the United States were mostly great changes have been wrought in the landscape. Protected from the fire by the plowman's furrow, trees have sprung up everywhere; so that to-day, through all that region stretching from the Ohio across the Missouri to the Great Plains, the forest areas are rapidly multiplying, and planted groves are common. It is thus that civilization protects forests, and thus the condition for forested lands which were prairies in their primeval state.

When man attempts to preserve large forests without protecting the ground with plow or by other agencies, he usually fails. To save the forests, he carefully tries to prevent fires; tree grass, leaves, bark, twigs and boughs, gather upon the surface of the earth from year to year, until a thick coating of inflammable material is formed. Immunity from fire thus furnishes food for fire; and when a dry season comes, an accidental spark starts a great conflagration, which spreads with the wind as only "wild-fire" spreads, and the great accumulation of combustible material makes a sweeping flame which destroys everything before it. It is thus that the forests of the Northwest, which are largely held for lumber purposes, are subject to fires that destroy property on a great scale, and even destroy human life.

When the rainfall is sufficient protection, and fires are not kindled, forests prevail. In Southern latitudes and low altitudes the trees attain a greater size than in northern latitudes and high elevations; but there are some important exceptions to this general rule. In Washington, Oregon and California, gigantic forests are found developed by humid lands that lie near the Pacific coast, and other groves of great trees stand on the slopes of the Sierras that face the great ocean. Where the moisture is more than fifty inches, and where other climatic conditions are favorable, the forests of gigantic trees, with tangled masses of undergrowth, stretch over the land. In the great valley of California, live-oak grows abundantly, and the trees are guarded and protected. In more arid lands, groves of low, spreading, gnarled pines and cedars are scattered at wide intervals. In early times, before the prairie region was settled, the forested groves of low spreading bur-oaks, that from a distance looked like orchards; and in fact they were orchards of acorns. In the humid lands, and especially in the tropic lands of Florida the great trees are often draped with festoons of "Spanish moss," and decorated with beautiful orchids. In the valley of the Ohio, magnolias spread their blossoms, and the forest is over the Alleghany Plateau, the Appalachian Mountains, and the Piedmont Plateau, great tulip trees stand, with stately poles and light branches that bear most beautiful flowers. In every flood plain of the United States, sycamores with smooth trunks, broad arms, and expanding leaves, spread a sweet shade over the ground when the summer sun is fierce. By every river, creek and brook the willow stand, and dip their delicate leaves into the murmuring waters. In the ponds and lakes of the United States, water lilies grow, and on all the hill-sides roses bloom. Late in the summer the goldenrod bursts into flame along the northern border of our land; and as the weeks and months pass, the zone of gold sweeps southward until it drops by the Gulf.

Before the settlement of America by the Europeans, while the land was yet under the sway of savage tribes, the whole country was annually burned over, and wherever forests could be destroyed they were swept away; but when the lands were plowed, the fires were stopped; and vast regions that were prairies at that time are now forested. To-day the forests of the United States are somewhat more extensive than they were at the landing of Columbus. While the prevention of fires saves some trees, the ax fell others, so that many forest regions have been transformed into fields; yet to-day fires destroy more trees than the ax.

The growth of trees depends upon rainfall, but partly also upon care. Sealing that acid lands are treeless, many observers reach the conclusion that aridity is due to the destruction of the forests. The effect is mistaken for the cause. This superstition has widely prevailed, and many of those who have not studied this subject believe that rainfall can be increased by the planting of trees. This subject has been most carefully and thoroughly investigated by scientists, and they are not able to discover that the presence or absence of trees either increase or diminish the rainfall; and yet this myth is told all over the land.—John W. Powell, of the U. S. Geological Survey, in "National Geographic Monographs."

A MID-OCEAN LETTERBOX.

How the Australian Sailors Send and Receive Their Letters.

A peculiar custom prevails among the skippers and fishermen in Australian waters. These hardy mariners are often for months at a time away from their homes, pursuing to and fro in search of fish, seals, coral or sponges. Away from all communication with the civilized world they have erected on points of vantage situated near much frequented ocean highways high stations, to which they attach an empty barrel at a convenient height. Here they deposit all letters they wish to mail, with money for the postage, and a pearl or a bit of coral as a reward for the one collecting the mail. In fact, it is nothing less than a letter box on the corner of the street. Regular steamers passing weekly call at those of the silent stations that are most patronized, and a system has been found to leave some mail there. All that is required is the previous announcement at what mail-posters are to be left, and the heart of the lone sailor mariner may be gladdened with news from home every week. A special tax is now collected for calling at such points.—Philadelphia Record.

The Cleanest Town in the Wide World.

The cleanest town in the world is said to be Brock, in Holland. It is only a few miles from the capital, and has been famous for its cleanliness from time immemorial. It is also notable on account of the fanciful style of its houses and yards and gardens and streets. The people, though only peasants, are all well-to-do, and all feel a pride in their town. It seems to be the first business of their lives to keep their houses freshly painted, their gardens in perfect order, and their yards and streets as clean as a parlor. No cars are allowed on the streets and no cattle. Though the raising of stock and the making of butter and cheese are their occupations, a stranger would never imagine that there are any cattle in the region, unless he went to the beautiful green meadows at the back of the houses, or the stables out there, where cows are kept in stalls scrubbed and washed like a kitchen. The streets are too fine and neat for the feet of the animals to step on; all are paved with polished boards, and these are their occupations, a stranger would never imagine that there are any cattle in the region, unless he went to the beautiful green meadows at the back of the houses, or the stables out there, where cows are kept in stalls scrubbed and washed like a kitchen. A cure with a Remedy on the thumb, crabs, etc., and the nail turns black and comes off. The thumb swells and is puffed out at another case. The thumb was swelled just the same but the man was not laid up an hour. He had a bottle of Dr. Fennell's Remedy. He poured some into a cup and dipped his thumb in it as soon as hurt. It is now covered with a thin film of cloth and kept wet with the Relief. He works as usual. It is not sore though yet raw. It has not swelled. No matter will form. He will work with it right along and in a day or two it will be well. Inflammation cannot exist where it is applied, any more than the morning dew can continue under the bright sun rays. Used externally and internally and cures colds, summer complaints, flux, dyspepsia, etc., etc., also drops on a small lump of sugar once in two hours cures sore throat and cures the throat. It cures any disease that has inflammation in it. One tablespoonful dose cures flu Grippe, Nerve diseases, etc., safe and certain. Many refunded if satisfaction not given. Take a bottle home to-day.

HORSE AND TRACK.

Drexell, brother to Axtell, will be trained to the pace.

Allerton 2:00 is being worked carefully, and it is expected that it will do to race.

Mat Laird, besides Rubinstein 2:08 will have another fast one in his string in Magnolia 2:00.

Twenty horses, with records from 2:04 to 2:20, are in training at Belmont Park, Philadelphia.

James Gordon Bennett's horses, Australis, Helen Layburn and Grace Simmons, will be started in races at Berlin, Germany, at an early date.

Rev. T. DeWitt Salisbury bought the handsome pair of horses Phant and Phyllis, at the recent Grand sale in New York, paying $1,500 for them.

James Gordon Bennett has offered a purse of $3,750 and a fine work of art for a race to be trotted at Berlin, Germany. He will start one of his purchases in it.

Annie Sheed, 2:43, by J. R. Ebel, winner of the yearling stake at the New England Breeders' Meeting, last year, has been bought by R. M. Sturtevant, of New England, for $2,000.

The pacing mare Nelly McCrory, which Barney Demarest bought at Luckey's sale early in the spring, has been entered in $10,000 worth of races. She is owned by James King of Montreal, Quebec.

Henry Fleischmann, who has Shadland and Delmona in Europe, secured $60,000 for Irywood 2:10, the stallion he sold to a horseman in Italy, and $18,000 for May Homer 2:18, that was sold to horsemen in France.

Monroe Salisbury says that as there are only two races open to Directly in which he can meet horses of his age, the three-year-old champion will be entered in the free-for-all against Robert J. Joe Patchen, John R. Gentry, Hat Dillard, Hat Pointer and others.

Ed. de Cerna confirms the report that he offered Monroe Salisbury $30,000 for Alia and still stands ready to take her at that price. Salisbury was $20,000 for her which would include her engagements for 1895, which he places at $15,000.

John Hunsay says that next September he will be willing to match Omega 2:11 against Alia 2:09 for any amount, providing that the champion of the turf will carry as much weight as his four-year-old.

Henry Fleischmann's stallion, Archie Sherman 2:29, by Sherman, won a $3,000 race at Vienna, Austria, last Thursday. At the same meeting in the International (Roudeau Prize of $4,800, the bay mare Arline 2:25 by Noble Harold, which John Spill shipped across the water, won second money.

It is likely that J. Malcome Forbes' horses will make quite an extensive campaign. The yearling Barnadee by Arion, the two-year-old Nixabake by Arion, the two-year-old Billy Anson by Arion, the three-year-old Sinola by Pawnee, and Vina Belle 2:15 by Nephew, having been entered in several stakes.

The touted colt Sulphide, brother to Carbonate, owned by Du Bols Bros., of Denver, and Monroe Salisbury's colt John D., by Direct, will meet in the two-year-old pace at Overland Park, Denver, in June. Both are very fast colts and the race is likely to be a repetition of the Carbonate-Barnadee race of last June when they paced their first races.

Following is the Call for the Democratic State Convention.

The County Chairman's Call.

Supplemental Rule: The voters now residing within the boundaries of the several voting precincts as they were fixed and located at the November election held in 1892, will assemble at the places at which the election was held in said precincts in November, 1892, and select delegates as heretofore directed. A PREACHERS CRIME.

Rev. Capps' Wife Will Die From Her Wounds, But He Will Recover.

Danville, Ky., May 19.—Mrs. J. R. Capps, of near Mt. Vernon, who was on Friday shot four times by her infuriated husband, cannot recover, and her death is expected at any moment. Her husband, Rev. J. R. Capps, who, after shooting her, made an unsuccessful attempt to cut his throat, is getting much better, and is in jail. He made an ugly gash in his windpipe with a razor, after trying to kill her with a knife with a pocket knife. They quarreled and separated. She afterward employed lawyers to sue for divorce and alimony. He went to her home to try and make up the affair, but she refused, when he drew a pistol and shot her, one ball going into her face, another into her breast and the other two into left shoulder and arm. Capps is a Baptist preacher, an educated, influential man and a large land owner.

Court Day.

There was about 800 cattle on the market, at Fitzpatrick's yards there was 650 cattle and about 150 at other pens. Trade was brisk but prices not as high as last court day. Taubee, of Breathitt county, sold 14 steers and bellers at from 2 1/2 to 4 cents; Horace Coleman, of Fayette county, bought 8 good yearlings averaging 750 pounds from W. A. Lacy, of Morgan county, @ 4 cents; Davis Bros., of Poplar Plains, Ky., bought 14 yearlings weighing about 500 pounds. These gentlemen want to buy 20 good jersey cows. Wm. Jones, of North Middletown, bought 13 cattle weighing about 700 pounds @ 3 1/2 cents; Frank Chennalt bought 15 700 pound cattle at 3 1/2 cents; Jo Hale, of Menefee county, sold some cows and a bull for $100; Salyers & Co. sold 8 bellers to M. Sterling papers that copy this report will please give the ADVOCATE the proper credit.)

HORSE AND MULE MARKET.

Good horses are in demand but there is few in the county we are said that people will raise and take in not raising good roadsters in the next three years. H. H. Keeler of Lexington, Fletcher Mann, of Paris, W. W. Adams, of Lexington, were here looking for horses. M. H. Beard of Carlisle, and Beard, of Lexington, and McIntyre, of Millersburg, bought a few mules but at low down prices. We did not hear of any sales of horses at 2 o'clock, when this report was written.

White or Yellow, Which?

White or yellow Democrats designate two wings of that dismantled party. It almost recalls the color line of other days.—Cincinnati Tribune. Capital, anticipating Japanese rule, is going extensively into sugar refineries on the island of Formosa. Nashville business men have appointed committees to raise the Tennessee Centennial fund by private subscription.

PLAYED ALIVE.

A Fearful Vengeance For a Horrible Crime.

The Associated Press sends out a report from Ellaville, Florida, under date of May 19th, which says: "Three negroes were lynched Saturday night in a dense swamp on the Sawnee river by white men for assaulting a white girl. It was reported that they were played alive and then burned after being subjected to frightful tortures. "The crime for which the negroes were put to death was terrible. The scene of the crime was in Lafayette county. "Miss Mamie Armstrong, the daughter of a prominent Lafayette county farmer, left home five days ago to spend the night with a neighbor two miles distant. On the next day Miss Armstrong's father went to bring her home and was alarmed to hear that nothing had been seen of her. "Armstrong alarmed the neighbors and a search was made. About midnight from the home of Armstrong and his neighbor's house, the handkerchief of the girl was found clinging to a bush, while all around were evidences of a desperate struggle. The corpse of Miss Armstrong was found in a thick clump of bushes with every shred of clothing torn from it and evidences that she had been assaulted. "Her head was crushed and her throat was cut. Sam Echols was suspected and threatened with instant death unless he confessed. He did so and implicated Sam Crowley and John Brooks. Echols said they kept the girl twenty-four hours before killing her, forcing her in the meanwhile to repeatedly submit to the most horrible indignities. For the greater part of the time the negro said Miss Armstrong was unconscious. "Having secured the negroes implicated by Echols the white men proceeded with the three dead to a dense swamp on the Sawnee river, where they were made to suffer torture similar to that they inflicted on the girl. The white people swear that they will exterminate the negroes if these outrages are continued."

May 18, 1895.—Editor of Advocate, In your issue of two weeks ago I read with pleasure a sketch of the life of Dr. L. P. V. Williams, of Morehead, candidate before the Democrats of the third district for the nomination for Railroad Commissioner. I have known the subject of the sketch from boyhood, was a soldier in the Confederate army myself, and am a witness to the correctness of the statements made. I regard Dr. Williams as a man in every way qualified to attend to the duties of the office. I believe the time has come when the people will demand just such a man, who is free from all entanglements and who would be for the right. He is industrious, intelligent, honest and above all a christian gentleman. I am no politician, but am a citizen and appreciate wholesome laws made by good men and also feel assured that when we have good men to execute our laws that it will be done. I therefore join heartily in the call now being made by the good people of the district, embracing the counties of Eastern Kentucky to the candidacy for the office of Railroad Commissioner. As I know Dr. Williams as few others do, by long acquaintance and personal contact, I unhesitatingly recommend him as preliminarily qualified for the said office and hope the Democrats will name him as their candidate. Very Respectfully, WILLIAM JAYNE.

Miss Carrie Crider, a young lady of Elizabethtown, who makes her home at the McCas House, has entered a novel suit in the Hardin Circuit Court against the Western Union Telegraph Company. Some time ago Miss Crider was under treatment of D. S. N. Willis, of Vine Grove. The doctor gave her some medicine, and afterward found that he had put a wrong ingredient in it, and if she took the medicine serious results would follow. The medicine was not to be taken until night, and the doctor went to the telegraph office in the afternoon and wired her not to take it. The message was not delivered until the next morning, and Miss Crider took the medicine and came near dying. The suit has been entered for $1,995, an amount to keep out of the United States Court, and the petition recites that through the negligence of the telegraph company the plaintiff sustained serious bodily injury.
